CAMERON ALBERT-RECHT

SYSTEMS ENGINEER

1. Tell us a little bit about yourself.

My name is Cameron, I've worked here for around 9 months now. I've been a computer geek for as long as I can remember. I started building my own PC's at a very young age and built up a lot of technical knowledge.

When I was younger, my parents put a software on my PC to try limit the screen time... I quickly learned to bypass that software. 😊

2. What is your job role at ITWORX UK?

As a Systems Engineer, I perform a variety of tasks including resolving tickets escalated by technicians and assisting when the service desk gets busy. I also complete project work and travel to client sites to check and resolve any incidents/requests that require a physical presence.

3. What do you enjoy doing when you aren't working?

I still spend a fair bit of time outside of work in front of a computer, mostly playing video games. I used to be a sponsored Counter-Strike: Global Offensive player, but now I just play for fun.

A tomahawk steak, chunky chips and asparagus on the side.

Last May, I completed my Private Pilots License. I'm now allowed to fly small planes and take passengers up... as long as I don't charge for it.
